

Web-based Change Management

IntaChange Enterprise is the innovative web-based change management software that's ideal for any industry sector. It transforms the change management process for:

Managers - saving time, increasing control and recording detailed information.

Staff - simple to learn and easy to use whatever their level of IT skills.

Change control boards - raise, schedule, allocate and review requests for change, at the click of a button.

Administrators - install on a central server and maintain and upgrade centrally, saving time and money.

Your need for change management

Ineffective controls are a major threat to compliance with Sarbanes-Oxley and other regulatory frameworks and managers face heavy penalties for failing to comply.

Businesses must demonstrate efficient change management systems in order to answer auditors' questions, who changed what, when and perhaps most importantly, why?

With the number of regulations set to double by 2012, it is managers who must take the lead in establishing control.

Our change management solution

The beauty of IntaChange Enterprise is its simplicity. It lets managers control complex IT and business processes by administering all change requests from a central point.

It is totally secure and ensures that accurate records are kept with full audit trails for regulatory compliance.

- Accurately document all changes
- Reduce the risk of data tampering
- Avoid unauthorized changes
- Eliminate resource conflicts
- Replace paper-based systems
- Ready to use ITIL v3 templates

Save time with automated features

IntaChange Enterprise dramatically reduces the time people take to perform routine tasks. Many features are fully automated with alerts to keep everyone informed.

Its simplicity in use belies its comprehensive coverage of all aspects of change management. From that first idea through to final implementation.

The screenshot shows the IntaChange Enterprise web interface. At the top, it displays the user's login information: 'You are logged on as: IntaChange Administrator (admin)', 'Project: Cathy_ITIL', 'Roles: admin, CABmember', and 'Previous logon: 11/01/2008 11:20:03'. Below this, there are search filters for 'I am interested in modifications since', 'I am interested in this user', and 'I am interested in this class'. The main dashboard is divided into several sections: 'My Changes' with a list of change requests (RFC00002 to RFC00006) and their modification dates; 'Recent Changes' with a table showing 'Recently Created', 'Recently Modified', 'Recently Progressed', and 'Recently Closed' counts; and 'My Recent' which includes a pie chart showing the status of recent changes (Submitted, Implement, Build, Working, Review, Approved, Urgent Implementation, Rejected) and a table of 'My Recent' changes with their status and dates.

Simplify your change management

Web-based Change Management

IntaChange Enterprise is essential for today's ever changing, information rich environment. Much more than a piece of software it will improve the way you work, by enabling staff to be more productive, proactive and progressive.

More productive - Remove obstacles, improve communication channels and automate tasks.

More pro-active - Simplify and automate routine tasks so people can concentrate on the important ones.

More progressive - Give people the information they need, to enable them to tackle change.

Save time - No client side installation, saving your administration team time on installation and upgrading.

Save money - Reduce the amount of staff required to administer a project, saving salary costs and reducing the need for expensive contract staff.

Run from a central server, cutting down on installation and set up costs.

Administration, configuration and upgrades are all handled centrally, saving you even more money.

Improve communication - Access information, when and where you need it. Your change manager is in New York, changes are made in Paris and you're juggling internal meetings in London. With IntaChange Enterprise you can control the change management process, wherever you are.

Whenever someone makes changes, records are automatically up-dated.

You can access the information immediately, produce detailed reports, and add comments, at the touch of a button.

Concurrent licensing - IntaChange Enterprise is supplied on a concurrent licensing basis, enabling you to share one licence between several people.

Unrivalled technical support - You get in-depth technical support during your free trial of the software and when you buy a technical support contract you get unlimited phone and email support, with most queries answered within the hour (GMT 9am - 22.00 pm).

The benefits

- Implement change management throughout your organization.
- Configure to your processes
- Simple to use, yet highly innovative.
- Designed to be of direct use to senior management.
- Unrivalled level of technical support and backup.
- Personal technical support consultants answer queries promptly, accurately and in-depth.
- Expert personal customer service at all times.
